CONTRIBUTORS TO THE MARCH ISSUE

James F. Thornburg, A.B., J.D.; Instructor of Federal Taxation, University of Notre Dame. Member of the Indiana Bar.

C. J. Antieau, B.S., M.S., J.D.; Instructor of Law, The Creighton University. Member of the Michigan Bar.

EDITORIAL NOTE.—The law school has presently the largest enrollment in its history — well over 200 men. Several new professors have joined the faculty and some new courses have been added to the law curriculum.

Professor Anton-Hermann Chroust, J.U.D., Ph.D., J.S.D., has studied in Germany and the United States. He comes to Notre Dame from Harvard University, where he was an associate of the eminent Dean Roscoe Pound and a member of the law faculty. Professor Chroust is presently dividing his time between the law school and the recently initiated Institute of Mediaeval Studies. His course on Jurisprudence is a new one in the law school and is well received by the students. Professor Chroust's article in the January, 1947 LAWYER was a most scholarly study of The Meaning of Law in the Common Law Tradition. We shall publish more of his work in the future.

Mr. Bernard Feeney, A.B., LL.B., received his degrees at Notre Dame and The Catholic University of America. This is his first teaching position.

Rev. W. J. Doheny, C.S.C., J.U.D., Advocate and Procurator of the Tribunal of the Signatura Apostolica and of the Sacred Roman Rota, is an authority in the field of canon law. Author of numerous scholarly and interpretive treatises in this field, he has three new works in progress: Canonical Procedure in Matrimonial Cases, Practical Manual in Marriage Cases, and Legal Ethics. Father Doheny is presently teaching Legal Ethics.

Professor Harold Gill Reuschlein, J. S. D., was formerly Professor of Law in Georgetown University, and, during the war, Chief of the Office of Legislative Services, Headquarters, Army Air Forces with the rank of Colonel. His primary field is Corporations and Business Associations. He has in preparation a casebook in Partnership and is offering, for the first time, a course in the Law of Cooperatives.

Mr. Louis L. Roberts, M.A., LL.B., formerly city attorney of Evansville, Indiana, and for many years a practicing attorney, is teaching some of the more practical aspects of the law. His course in Office Practice is new to the law school and should prove of invaluable aid to all who intend to practice.

Mr. James F. Thornburg, J.D., is offering a two semester sequence on Federal Taxation. His article on Estate and Inheritance Taxes is one of the leading articles in this issue of THE LAWYER.

Dean Clarence E. Manion has recently introduced a course in Fundamental Law. Working with such materials as the Declaration of Independence and the writings of the civil rights reformers of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, he endeavors to give the student a broader grasp of the purpose of law in the United States.

WILL CLAUSES ANNOTATED.—Matthew Bender Co. has recently announced the publication of WILL CLAUSES ANNOTATED, by Professor William Dewey Rollison, of the College of Law, well known authority on wills and author of the text ROLLISON ON WILLS. WILL CLAUSES ANNOTATED, a form book, has been very well received by the profession and has occasioned the most favorable reviews. It is unique in its organization of material as to will clauses, and, coupled with an exhaustive index, constitutes a most valuable aid to the attorney. The book is now in its second printing.

The present staff of THE LAWYER, conscious of some of its shortcomings in the past, is doing its utmost to try to improve the periodical, both as to form and content. This is not a easy task. Our greatest present need is lead material. We should have a backlog of good leading articles written by competent men, the more the better. This is an appeal; if you have written or are writing a legal article which you think is worthy of publication and which has not been previously published, send it to us for consideration. If you are acquainted with persons who have some authority in their field, persuade them to publish in THE LAWYER. Our second need is suggestions from our readers. Let us know what criticism you have and what suggestions you make for improving this publication.

ANY OLD LAW REVIEWS OR BOOKS?—Some readers may have in their offices or homes law reviews and books which are occupying space but which are no longer consulted. While these books may not be of use to the practicing lawyer, they frequently are of research value in a law school library.

The Law Library of the University of Notre Dame is interested in building up its collection of codes and session laws. It is also interested
